Few ignorant Muslims in India felt threatened by what they perceived as an encroachment of the Muslim Personal Law, and protested loudly against the judgement. Their spokesmen were Muslim community leaders Obaidullah Khan Azmi, MJ Akbar and Syed Shahabuddin, they formed an organization known as the All India Muslim Personal Law Board and threatened to agitate in large numbers in all major cities. It was then Prime Minister, Rajiv Gandhi, agreed to their demands and cited the gesture as an example of "secularism". The Shah Bano case is an infamous divorce lawsuit in India and has generated political controversy in the country. Never the less Shah Bano fought and won the case and judgement was in favour of her.

A woman should never be underrated. Loud voice of man may threaten the women but the silence of woman can shake the consciousness of man. Shah Bano did the same, she stood in front of her husband without making any loud voice but with great power and courage which ultimately led her to

What is the judgment of Shah Bano case?

Shah Bano Begum [1985 (1) SCALE 767 = 1985 (3) SCR 844 = 1985 (2) SCC 556 = AIR 1985 SC 945], commonly referred to as the Shah Bano case, was a controversial maintenance lawsuit in India, in which the Supreme Court delivered a judgment favouring maintenance given to an aggrieved divorced Muslim woman

Mohd. Ahmed Khan v. Shah Bano Begum -

In 1979, the Magistrate directed the husband to pay a maintenance of Rs 25 per month. In 1980, Shah Bano filed a revisional application in the MP High Court to change the amount of maintenance which the High Court increased to Rs. 179 per month. The husband then challenged this application in the Supreme Court as a special leave petition.

In Shah Bano's case, the appellant's (Mohd Khan) contention was supported by the All India Muslim Personal Law Board which contended that courts cannot interfere in those matters that are deliberated under Muslim Personal Law, stating that it would infringe "The Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) Application Act, 1937" and the courts must pass any judgment on such issues based on Shariat only.

Shah Bano case judgment

In 1985, a judgment was passed by the Supreme Court on the issue of whether CrPC, which applies to all citizens of India irrespective of their religion, could apply here. And that CrPC would prevail over personal laws.

Court's judgment that gave orders for maintenance to Shah Bano under CrPC. Just that the Supreme Court enhanced the sum of maintenance. He said, "Section 125 was enacted to provide a quick remedy to a class of persons who cannot maintain themselves. What difference would it then make as to what is the religion professed by the neglected wife, child or parent? Neglect by a person of sufficient means to maintain these and the inability of these persons to maintain themselves are the objective criteria which determine the applicability of section 125. Such provisions, which are crucial of a prophylactic nature, cut across the barriers of religion. The liability imposed by S. 125 to maintain close relatives who are indigent is founded upon the person's obligation to society to prevent vagrancy and destitution. The moral edict of the law and morality cannot be clubbed with religion."

FAQs on Shah Bano Case

1. What was the Shah Bano case about?

A. The Shah Bano case revolved around the issue of maintenance rights for a divorced Muslim woman named Shah Bano. She sought maintenance from her husband under Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

2. Did the Shah Bano case lead to changes in maintenance laws for divorced Muslim women?

A. The enactment of the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act in 1986, as a response to the Shah Bano case, limited the maintenance rights of divorced Muslim women. The case caused the Congress government, with its absolute majority, to pass this Act, which diluted the judgment of the Supreme Court and restricted the right of Muslim divorcées to alimony from their former husbands for only 90 days after the divorce (the period of iddah in Islamic law)

The Shah Bano legacy

THE SHAH Bano case was a milestone in the Muslim women's search for justice and the beginning of the political battle over personal law. A 60-year-old woman went to court asking maintenance from her husband who had divorced her. The court ruled in her favour. Shah Bano was entitled to maintenance from her ex-husband under Section 125 of the Criminal Procedure Code (with an upper limit of Rs. 500 a month) like any other Indian woman. The judgment was not the first granting a divorced Muslim woman maintenance under Section 125. But a voluble orthodoxy deemed the verdict an attack on Islam.

The Congress Government, panicky in an election year, caved in under the pressure of the orthodoxy. It enacted the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce)

Act, 1986. The most controversial provision of the Act was that it gave a Muslim woman the right to maintenance for the period of iddat (about three months) after the divorce, and shifted the onus of maintaining her to her relatives or the Wakf Board. The Act was seen as discriminatory as it denied divorced Muslim women the right to basic maintenance which women of other faiths had recourse to under secular law.

Mar 29, 2024 The International Court of Justice on Thursday issued new provisional measures for Israel as the humanitarian situation in bombarded and besieged Gaza continues to deteriorate. A school serving as a shelter home in Gaza. Photo: X/@UNRWA case in December accusing Israel of genocide in Gaza, based on its continuing offensive following Hamas-led attacks in southern Israel which left almost 1,200 dead and more than 240 taken hostage.

Since then, more than 33,000 Palestinians have been killed by Israeli strikes and attacks, according to figures from Gaza's health ministry.

Israel to ensure aid deliveries

The ICJ provisional measures state that Israel, "in view of the worsening conditions of life faced by Palestinians in Gaza, in particular the spread of famine and starvation", shall take "all necessary and effective measures to ensure, without delay, in full cooperation with the United Nations, the unhindered provision at scale by all concerned of urgently needed basic services and humanitarian assistance to Palestinians throughout Gaza".

The measures outline that the required aid includes food, water, electricity, fuel, shelter, clothing, hygiene and sanitation requirements, as well as medical supplies and medical care.

Orders to open more land crossings

The fresh ICJ order also calls on Israel, as a signatory to the Genocide Convention, to undertake those measures, "including by increasing the capacity and number of land crossing points and maintaining them open for as long as necessary".

Additional measures call for Israel to ensure "with immediate effect that its military does not commit acts which constitute a violation of any of the rights of the Palestinians in Gaza as a protected group" under the Genocide Convention.

This includes "by preventing, through any action, the delivery of urgently needed humanitarian assistance", according to the ICJ.

The court also decided that Israel shall submit a report to the ICJ on all measures within one month.

UN: All Member States must abide by ICJ decisions

UN Spokesperson Stéphane Dujarric reminded journalists at his daily briefing that the ICJ operates independently.

"We do believe as a matter of principle that all Member States abide by decisions of the court," he said.

The ICJ was established by the UN Charter as the principal judicial organ of the UN.

WORLD 'Reasonable Grounds' to Believe Genocide Is Being Committed in Gaza: UN Expert UN News

Mar 27, 2024 "There are reasonable grounds to believe that the threshold indicating the commission of the crime of genocide…has been met," said the UN Special Rapporteur Francesca Albanese. A building in Gaza after Israel launch airstrikes following Hamas surprise attack. Photo: X/@UNRWA

There are "reasonable grounds" to believe that Israel is committing genocide against Palestinians in Gaza, the UN Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Occupied Palestinian Territories said on Tuesday.

Francesca Albanese was speaking at the UN Human Rights Council in Geneva, where she presented her latest report, entitled 'Anatomy of a Genocide', during an interactive dialogue with Member States.

“Following nearly six months of unrelenting Israeli assault on occupied Gaza, it is my solemn duty to report on the worst of what humanity is capable of, and to present my findings,” she said.

“There are reasonable grounds to believe that the threshold indicating the commission of the crime of genocide…has been met.”

Three acts committed

Citing international law, Ms. Albanese explained that genocide is defined as a specific set of acts committed with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnic, racial or religious group.

“Specifically, Israel has committed three acts of genocide with the requisite intent, causing seriously serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group, deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part, and imposing measures intended to prevent birth within the group," she said.

Furthermore, "the genocide in Gaza is the most extreme stage of a long-standing settler colonial process of erasure of the native Palestinians," she continued.

A tragedy foretold

"For over 76 years, this process has oppressed the Palestinians as a people in every way imaginable, crushing their inalienable right to self-determination demographically, economically, territorially, culturally and politically."

She said the "colonial amnesia of the West has condoned Israel's colonial settler project", adding that "the world now sees the bitter fruit of the impunity afforded to Israel. This was a tragedy foretold."

Ms. Albanese said denial of the reality and the continuation of Israel's impunity and exceptionalism is no longer viable, especially in light of the binding UN Security Council resolution, adopted on Monday, which called for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza.

Arms embargo and sanctions against Israel

"I implore Member States to abide by their obligations which start with imposing an arms embargo and sanctions on Israel, and so ensure that the future does not continue to repeat itself," she concluded.

‘Barbaric aggression continues’: Palestine Ambassador

The Permanent Observer of the State of Palestine to the UN in Geneva, Ibrahim Khraishi, noted that the report provides the historic context of genocide against the Palestinian people.

He said Israel “continues its barbaric aggression” and refuses to abide by the decision of the International Court of Justice (ICJ), issued in January, to take provisional measures in order to prevent the crime of genocide. Israel has also refused to abide by UN General Assembly and Security Council resolutions, including the one adopted on Monday, he added.

“And this means that all recommendations in the report of the Special Rapporteur shall be implemented, and practical measures should be taken to prevent the export of weapons, to boycott Israel commercially and politically, and to implement mechanisms of accountability," he said.

Israeli settlement expansion

Separately, the UN Deputy High Commissioner for Human Rights, Nada Al-Nashif, presented a report on Israeli settlements in the Occupied Palestinian Territory during the period from 1 November 2022 to 31 October 2023.

"The reporting period has seen a drastic acceleration, particularly after 7 October 2023, of long-standing trends of discrimination, oppression and violence against Palestinians that accompany Israeli occupation and settlement expansion bringing the West Bank to the brink of catastrophe," she said.

There are now around 700,000 Israeli settlers in the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, who live in 300 settlements and outposts, all of which are illegal under international humanitarian law.

Expansion of existing settlements

The size of existing Israeli settlements has also expanded markedly, according to the report by the UN human rights office, OHCHR.

Approximately 24,300 housing units within existing Israeli settlements in the West Bank in Area C were advanced or approved during the reporting period – the highest on record since monitoring began in 2017.

The report observed that policies of the current Israeli Government “appear aligned, to an unprecedented extent, with the goals of the Israeli settler movement to expand long-term control over the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, and to steadily integrate this occupied territory into the State of Israel,” Ms. Al-Nashif said.

Transfer of power

During the reporting period, Israel took steps to transfer administrative powers relating to settlements and land administration from the military authorities to Israeli government offices, whose primary focus is to provide services within the State of Israel.

“The report therefore raises serious concerns that a series of measures, including this transfer of powers to the Israeli civilian officials, could facilitate the annexation of the West Bank in violation of international law, including the Charter of the United Nations,” she said.

‘Dramatic increase’ in violence

There was also a dramatic increase in the intensity, severity and regularity of Israeli settler violence against Palestinians, accelerating their displacement from their land, in circumstances that may amount to forcible transfer.

The UN recorded 835 incidents of settler violence in the first nine months of 2023, the highest on record. Between 7 and 31 October 2023, the UN recorded 203 settler attacks against Palestinians and monitored the killing of eight Palestinians by settlers, all by firearms.

Of the 203 settler attacks, more than a third involved threats with firearms, including shooting. Furthermore, almost half of all incidents between 7 and 31 October involved Israeli forces escorting or actively supporting Israeli settlers while carrying out attacks.
